The Countryside Veterinary Center's design focused on creating a modern clinic that was inviting to clients and patients. Their goal was to provide the convenience of multiple services in one place, with the accessibility of a storefront, plus extended hours. The two-story building includes approximately 10,000 square feet of floor area. Natural materials such as brick and stone were used in the design of the building to the site and a two-story glass lobby invited clients into the main reception area of the facility.
